

hello,
I'm Kim!

I'M SO GLAD YOU DECIDED TO JOIN OUR COMMUNITY.

I've got so much to share with you and I can't wait to get started. But before we do, I have just one small request.

Please do NOT share the link to this file with anyone.

It might not make sense to you, but sharing the link to this page hurts my business and thus my family. If you'd like to share this great Freebie (and I do hope you will) please do so by sharing the page where people can sign up to receive it:

If you are a children's ministry worker, pastor or other ministry worker, you may duplicate this file for direct use in your ministry only. Again, don't share the link, but if you want to print copies for the families in your ministry, you are welcome to do so.

VALENTINE'S BASKET FOR KIDS

MAKING YOUR VALENTINE'S BASKET FOR KIDS

The sky is the limit when you are filling your basket. You can stick with just the items that I included or add more according to your kids' interests. I try and keep it pretty simple, if I can.

I bought one of each of these things for each child:

Juice box—> Apparently the days of the short and fat juice boxes are gone. I could only find tall and skinny ones in my store. Keep that in mind when you are shopping. The one in the picture is Juicy Juice.

Band-aids—> Since different brands are different size, I went with the Band-aid brand assuming most of you could find it. Not to mention, they have the cute little characters that my kids enjoy and that's what makes this gift super fun anyway!

Socks—> I love buying cute socks for my kids on special occasions. It's just a frivolous thing that they rarely get otherwise. The $1 bin at Target is usually full of fun ones. On the back of the label I thought I would write something about each child that I'm really proud of since it says "You knock my socks off." This will be in addition to my letter.

Candy bar—> This is one of those specialty Valentine's bars that they usually sell for $1. The wrapper doesn't quite fit around it because it's so large. I just taped it in the back. The wrapper fits regular bars just fine though if that bothers you!

Pack of Gum—> Gum packs are interesting these days, too. I made this one to fit the rectangular packs that are most common in the checkout lines.

Starburst—> This is your standard pack of Starburst candies. The red packaging makes it perfect for Valentine's Day!

The Letter—> I tuck away each letter in a pretty envelope and stick it in the back of the basket, so it's not pictured above or below. Nonetheless, I didn't want you to forget about it, so I listed it here. As I mentioned above, my kids treasure this letter every single year. It's become one of the sweetest family traditions that we have!
